A quiet wedding took place on July 20th in Calgary, when Elizabeth Jean (Betty), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott, formerly of Blaimore, became the bride of Mr. Melvin Andrew Carrico, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carrico, of Carstairs, and teacher at the Cochrane school. Mr. and Mrs. Carrico visited in Blaimore and Fernie last week end on their honeymoon trip.

Hanna retail merchants have announced a "trial period" in which they will give the Aberhart scrip a trial. At the end of a month, the merchants will hold a meeting to decide as to whether or not it would be wise to continue accepting the "hot money." If at that time they find circulation sufficient to warrant continued acceptance, they will probably report in favor of continuing.

ELECTROCUTED IN BOILER

Harold Henderson, an employee of Hillcrest Collieries Limited, met probably instant death while in the act of scraping the interior of a locomotive boiler on Monday. It is thought that he came into contact with a frayed electric light cord that carried but 110 voltage. It was attached to a light he was using in the boiler.

He suffered burns about the head and apparently died instantly. Fellow workers used a pulmotor in an unsuccessful effort to revive him.

Mr. Henderson is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Jewel McDonald, daughter of Dr. H. A. McDonald, formerly of Blaimore, now of Vancouver, B.C. Dr. McDonald attended the last rites.

Deceased was a member of the Masonic Order; and members of that order turned out in a body to honor their departed brother. Services at the home and graveside were conducted by Rev. John Wood, of the United church, while at the graveside, also the impressive last rites of the Masonic Order were rendered by Past Grand Master G. E. Cruickshank.

MICHEL MINER KILLED BY TRAIN AT COLEMAN

The remains of George Rasko were found lying on the railway main line tracks about an eighth of a mile west of Coleman-C.P.R. station at about six o'clock on Tuesday morning by a man on the way to work at the coke ovens, who immediately reported to the police. On examination, it was decided he had been dead several hours.

Rasko had purchased a ticket with intention of going to Michel by the 1.15 a.m. passenger train, and as no freight had travelled through Coleman between midnight and six in the morning, it is believed he had made an unsuccessful attempt to board the moving passenger train.

An inquest was decided upon and a jury impelled, and with Coroner A. M. Morrison, viewed the scene of the fatality and the remains and adjourned to a later date.

The remains were brought to the undertaking parlors at Blaimore, and were later transferred to Michel for burial.

Rasko came from Poland eight years ago. He is survived by his wife and two children, residing in Pohand.

DEATH OF MRS. J. EDDY

Slightly more than four months ago—on March 20th, to be correct—we had occasion to chronicle the passing of a widely known and highly respected citizen of Burnin, in the person of Mr. James Eddy, senior, who departed this life at Creston, B.C., on March the 14th. Today we announce the death of Mrs. James Eddy, senior, who also passed away at Creston on Wednesday of this week. Her remains will be laid to rest beside those of her husband in a Creston cemetery this afternoon.

Mrs. Eddy is survived by two sons, one on the Creston ranch, and James at the Burnin store.

Miss Connie Smith has resigned the position of Girls' Work secretary for Alberta with the C.G.I.T., and is succeeded by Miss Lillian Carscadden, of Red Deer. Miss Carscadden, a young woman in her middle twenties, is well known in girls' work throughout the province. She has been active in the Canadian Girls in Training, and has directed a number of camps. Her new work will include the organization of C.G.I.T. groups and visiting these alluring programmes, and to give addresses on the work at special functions during the year. Miss Carscadden, who graduated from the University of Alberta two years ago, has taken courses in leadership training. Last year she taught school at Olds.

KING EDWARD UNVEILS CANADIAN MEMORIAL

In the presence of 100,000 people, including six thousand Canadian men and women who had travelled five thousand miles to be present, His Majesty the King unveiled the magnificent Canadian Memorial on Vimy Ridge on Sunday afternoon. President Lebrun, of France, took part in the ceremony, and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice; Hon. C. G. Power, minister of pensions and national health; Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of national defence, and Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, represented Canada; Hon. C. G. Power reading the message from Premier W. L. Mackenzie-King.

The King arrived with Hon. M. Lapointe, inspected the guard of honor from H.M.C.S. Saguenay, the destroyer which accompanied the Vimy Pilgrims from Canada. Following the religious service with addresses by the three Canadian chaplains present, Mr. King's message was read. Mr. Lapointe and Mr. Mackenzie spoke, followed by the King and President Lebrun. The "Last Post" was sounded after His Majesty's address, signaling the beginning of a two-minute silence, which was ended by the sounding of "Reveille." After the French and British National Anthems, His Majesty and President Lebrun placed wreaths on the monument, followed by Mr. Power and other wreath-bearers.

FOREST RESERVES ARE CLOSED TO CAMPERS

T. F. Blegin, director of provincial forestry service, has summarily announced the prohibition of all entry or travel within the Forest Reserves running from Waterton Lakes to Clearwater.

Conditions in practically every part of the Crow's Nest, Bow River and Clearwater timber reserves are drier than he has ever known, Mr. Alexander, superintendent of Crow's Nest reserve, stated, coupled with dwindling water supplies, which might aid in fighting a blaze. Hundreds of fishermen and campers in these areas increases the risk of fire being accidentally or carelessly started, besides increasing the duties of rangers who would have to patrol all frequented camping sites.

Penalties under the act for illegally entering a forest reserve are heavy. How long the ban will be enforced depends entirely on climatic conditions, as heavy and continued rain will be necessary before the existing sirocco is removed.

INFORMATION WANTED

Mrs. E. H. Beard, an old-timer of the Crow's Nest Pass and Blaimore, now residing at 1438 West 96th street, Los Angeles, California, desires information that some friend in this district might be able to furnish.

Her son Clarence was born in Blaimore on or about November the 27th, 1910. He holds a position in Los Angeles, dependent upon his establishing his place and time of birth. Mrs. Beard has written Edmonton, but they have no definite record there. She has now taken the matter up with The Enterprise, and looking through our file of 1910, we can find no reference to the birth of Clarence.

The address is, given above, and anyone who can furnish Mrs. Beard with the desired information (or close to it) would be doing her a good turn. At the time of birth, Dr. J. W. McKay, now deceased, was resident medical practitioner, while a Mrs. Johnson was nurse.

Many thousands of game birds, such as the various species of grouse, were destroyed in the fire that for the past two weeks has been ravaging the Castle River country. Grouse and rabbits have a habit of heading right into the fire.

THE PASS EIGHTEEN YEARS AGO (The Blaimore Enterprise, 1918)

August 2.—Four men were arrested this week near Beaver Mines, where they were found fully armed and fortified and ready for trouble.

Born on July 30th, to Mr. and Mrs. John McPhail; a 12-pound daughter.

To a young clergyman in Vancouver, who was suffering from melancholy and insomnia, a doctor recommended regular shots of good rum for the former complaint, and standing for thirty-six hours at a time at a blackjack game for the latter.

The death occurred on Coleman on Saturday of Harry Wheatcroft, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Wheatcroft, of Blaimore, in his early twenties.

C. R. Pearson has resigned the principalship of the Blaimore school, to take a similar position at Camrose. About forty Old Fellows and Rebekahs attended a lodge function at Fernie on Wednesday.

James Crowder, who succeeds Wm. Stevenson as mine inspector, arrived in Blaimore with his family from Drumheller this week.

The marriage of Miss Louise Sinclair to Sergt. S. H. Kistruck, R.N.W.M.P., took place at Pincher Creek on Monday.

Mrs. Wilson, wife of Postmaster Wilson, of Frank, died in Calgary last week end.

August 9.—Mrs. H. Gibeau was this week awarded a gold watch, having been one of the successful candidates in the Calgary Canadian's subscription campaign.

E. Maxwell Brown, formerly of Blaimore, is reported a prisoner of war in Germany.

Word has been received that Lieut. C. E. F. Hiscocks has been awarded the Military Cross. He led his pack train of sixty horses forward with ammunition under most adverse conditions, and brought up stores under heavy shelling. Lieut. Hiscocks resigned the position of secretary-treasurer of the Town of Blaimore to go overseas with the Lethbridge kiltie battalion.

H. S. Sweet, B.A., of Calgary, has been engaged to succeed C. R. Pearson as school principal.

Miss Helen McCarthy has been engaged as primary teacher, at a salary of $800.

Miss Margaret Buck, formerly of the Blaimore teaching staff, has accepted a position as teacher at Dawson City.

Blaimore's second annual Chautauqua opened on Wednesday of this week.

SUN LIFE MEN HONORED

Sun Life representatives who will attend the Macaulay Club gathering at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, New Brunswick, September the 9th to 12th inclusive, include Earle A. Beck, unit manager, Lethbridge, who has the honor of being the leading representative of the three western provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta; one of his unit members, Colin Hedderick, of Lethbridge, and C. J. Tompkins, of Blaimore, who also went over the top for Macaulay Club. This being Mr. Hedderick's fifth qualification, he earns the much coveted Macaulay Club watch.

Mr. Tompkins has made his Macaulay Club qualification nearly every year for the past eighteen, which is some record.

Messrs. S. Eaplin, of Edmonton, and F. Swann, of Calgary, both of the Department of Municipal Affairs were in town Wednesday, conducting a sale of rural district lands for unpaid taxes.

Some amateur holdups and robberies have been perpetrated during the week. The culprits will keep going till they land where they ought to be—and possibly for just a little too long, for certain citations are fully prepared for them.

PROTECTION OF STOP SIGNS URGED ON MUNICIPALITIES

Protection of stop signs or markers on various streets and highways is being emphasized by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

Attention has been drawn to the fact that these signs have been damaged or defaced at some points, making them of no use whatever for the purpose for which they are intended.

Civic authorities in some parts of Alberta are repairing or replacing signs which have been damaged or destroyed, but there still are some which have not been put in proper shape. At some points signs which were removed by some mischievous persons have not been replaced.

Visiting motorists in particular are likely to be on a keen lookout for highway signs. When these have been damaged, it means that fresh highway traffic hazards have been created, possibly resulting in serious accidents.

Municipal and other authorities are being urged to see that highway signs are kept in proper shape, especially in view of the general feeling that motor tourist traffic this year will reach an unprecedented volume.

Draught action in dealing with culprits who have been found guilty of defacing signs undoubtedly would prove a strong deterrent to the practice.

Another suggestion is that highway markers should be placed to a greater extent at points where there is any feeling that they would be of value and make for safer driving in this province.

Headed by Tim Buck, a lot of Communists went through the ceremony of burying Section 98. The pall-bearers were high hats and the orators delivered speeches demanding free speech. This section they buried in the section of the Criminal Code which they claimed, prohibited free speech.—E.S.

When Milton delivered his "Paradise Lost" to his bookseller, Samuel Simmons, he was promised an immediate payment of $25, another payment of $25 after 1500 copies had been sold, and the same amount for the second and third editions. Milton received the first payment, and two years later the second payment, but he passed away before the book went into its second edition. His widow received $40 for the second and third editions, making a total of $90 paid for "Paradise Lost."—Milverson Sun.

WORLD HAPPENINGS
BRIEFLY TOLD

Jewish newspapers have been ordered not to report anything about the activities of Jews on Olympic teams.

Exhibits from King Edward and the National Gallery were included in an exhibition of British art at Amsterdam.

The Duke of York was elected president of Christ's hospital recently, receiving the ancient "charge" of faithfulness and diligence which originated in 1557.

The Harvard University observatory reported recently two comets were visible to the naked eye in the evening sky. An observatory bulletin termed the phenomena "an extremely rare occurrence."

It has been announced that the Beit fellowship for scientific research, tenable at the Imperial College of Science for 1936-37, has been awarded to E. K. Woodford of the University of Alberta, Edmonton.

At the end of 1935 South Africa, whose white population has not yet touched the two million mark, had 212,767 motor cars and taxis. This is an increase of 15.29 per cent. in 1934, when the number was 184,553. Dr. H. J. van der Merwe, president of the South African Automobile Association, said the increase was due to the fact that the number of cars per head of the population is now 1.5, whereas in 1934 it was 1.4.

J. A. W. Lemon, 62, one of the men who introduced polo to western Canada, is dead. He was born at Guelph, Ont., and came west when 16 years of age to join a financial firm with which he remained until his death.

Radio Helps Fishermen

Points Out Presence Of Shoals To British Trawlers

Radio is now helping to catch fish. Masters of more than 1,000 British trawlers can detect the presence of shoals by watching a small luminous spot travel over a graduated scale. The instrument was primarily designed to provide continuous sounding, but fishermen have found it also indicates the presence of shoals. Fitted to the hull of the ship is a special device which projects short radio waves toward the bottom of the sea. When they strike the bottom they are reflected back to the ship and cause a moving spot of light to jump suddenly. This movement indicates the depth of the water at that instant.

If a shoal of fish is passing under the ship, a second movement of the light spot will indicate its presence and, what is extremely important its depth.

Planning Girl Engine Crew

Members From Best Mechanics

Russian Woman Engineer Selecting Members From Best Mechanics

Twenty-three-year-old Zinaida Troitskaya, Russia's first and only woman locomotive engineer, has announced that she intends to train an engine crew of women in the near future. "Since I am the only woman now working on a locomotive I have decided to select members for this brigade from the best girl mechanics," she added. The announcement was made just after she had been informed that the Government had awarded her the Order of Lenin, its highest honor, for her pioneer work at the throttle of the Z-104, one of the Kazan's most powerful locomotives. Zinaida lives in Moscow. Her mother is a time-keeper in a locomotive depot. At her father was a railway carman. At the time of his death she became apprenticed as a locomotive mechanic, then worked her way up as engineer.

Photographed From Air

Advance In Television

Expected To Be Offered To The Public By Next Year

Television seems certain to come out of its hiding place this summer. A large-scale experimental broadcasting station is being constructed on top of the Empire State building in New York city, and official announcements from the Radio Corporation of America say that it will be ready for operation within a few months. R.C.A.'s chief rival, Farnsworth Television, whose system has been adopted for trial by the British and German governments, and is now undergoing test constructions in those countries, is also showing great activity at its headquarters in Philadelphia. Both these systems employ the electrical-scanning principle, which practically renders obsolete all previous mechanical-scanning systems.

The Federal Communications Commission is now holding a series of hearings to establish uniform standards so that a given television receiving set will operate interchangeably on either an R.C.A. or Farnsworth receiving set. Unlike sound broadcasting, in television any change in procedure will render useless existing receiving sets, so that any setting up of standards immediately "freezes" development of both sending and receiving while the standards remain in force.

This is but one of the almost infinitely complicated technical problems that face television. Scientists agree that the development of television will be vastly slower than the development of sound broadcasting. So far, plans call for the distribution of only a limited number of receiving sets, to be given out by the television companies largely to their own staffs and used for experimental purposes.

Television possibly will be offered to the general public next year. The size of the image developed for home receiving sets thus far is about four inches—New Republic New York.

Wrigley's Inaugurate Pension Plan

Company Contributes Nearly $100,000 To Start Plan For Employees

Over two hundred members of the Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co. Limited of Canada join with 3,000 employees of the company in the United States in a pension plan recently announced. The plan went into effect in Canada on July 1st, 1935.

Under the plan the amount of pensions depends on the workers' wages and the length of service with the company. The plan has been in force for a long time and has always been of interest to the fullest extent. In order to credit employees who have been with the company for many years before the start of the plan, Wrigley's have made a cash contribution to the fund of almost $100,000 to cover these years of previous service. Thus any employee who has been with the company for 25 years and whose salary is now $200 a month, would have an automatic pension of $50.00 per month.

On the average, the company and the employee pay into the fund an equal amount each month. The employees' contribution amounts to about four cents a dollar of salary earned. The retirement age is set at 65 years. Life expectancy is estimated at 12 years above that age.

However in the event of death, or discontinuance in the employment of the Wm. Wrigley Company, or in the case of early retirement, employees may withdraw the funds which they have paid into the plan. The interest compounded at 3% annually. Payments and pensions are all based on the employee's salary at the time of his retirement. The plan is important to corporations as it is to individuals.

As an example for employees long with the company, a man who has been with Wrigley's for 25 years, earning a salary of $200 monthly, would, if he continues with the company for twenty more years, earn a pension of $100.00 per month. If he lives out the normal expectancy of 12 years, he will have withdrawn a total of $15,840.00, although his contributions would amount to only $1,920.00.

That the Wrigley Company is acting in perfect good faith is evidenced by the tremendous amount of cash contributed to the fund in order to ensure fair treatment to old employees. Fully aware of the moral responsibility of the company, Wm. Wrigley has assumed this responsibility realizing that the welfare of the community is as important to corporations as it is to individuals.

And So On

"Well, dear," said Mr. Blair after tea had been cleared away, "what are you planning to do tonight?"

Mrs. Blair shrugged her shoulders. "Nothing special," she replied. "I'll probably write a letter or two, read, listen to the radio, and so on."

"I see," he replied. "When you come to the so on, don't forget my shirt buttons."

The man who always says, "I run things at home," usually refers to the lawnmower, the mangle and the errands.

New War Weapon

Britain Has Devised Anti-Aircraft Gun With Eight Barrels

The British have devised an anti-aircraft gun with eight barrels, which can fire 1,000 shells a minute four miles high. It throws explosive shells, incendiary shells, tracer bullets and shrapnel. With this, it is claimed, a barrage can be set up in the sky through which planes cannot pass. But there are many considerations. Shells must explode at the right height, they must explode in the right place, and it takes some moments for a shell to rise, the wind must be allowed for, and the plane is a moving object, which can rise higher, or drop lower, change direction at will, and is a difficult target to handle. The assurance in this case may rest on the fact of the gun being able to throw such a stream of shells into the air, that altogether different from a few scattered shots, the plane is unable to judge which way to turn for escape, and falls a victim to the gunner. Whatever the success of this new arm, there is this to be said, that it is infinitely superior to the old anti-aircraft gun, and is an instrument of defence.

Goes To Italy

First U.S. Minister To Canada Selected To Go To Rome

William Phillips, United States under-secretary of state, has been selected by the new ambassador to Rome by his country. Mr. Phillips was the first United States minister to Canada since 1914.

Mr. Phillips will face two distinct problems in his new appointment. It is said in diplomatic circles. First, and most direct, is the course of Italo-American relations complicated by the inability of the United States to recognize the Italian conquest of Ethiopia. Considerable tension for some time to come is expected.

Of indirect, but far greater importance, it is said however, is the problem of analyzing Italy's probable future course of action, and keeping the United States fully informed. For remote as Italy may seem from the United States, what course she pursues in Europe has a vital effect on affairs in the Far East, where the United States is directly concerned.

Some Cities Show Increase

But Building Permits Lower Than Same Period Last Year

Value of building permits in 68 Canadian cities was more than 10 per cent. lower last June than in June, 1935, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported recently. The value was $4,580,740, up $414,902 from the previous year but $29,115 below the level of June a year before.

The bureau said the value of the building authorized in the first six months of this year was $17,500,420, considerably lower than the $24,640,511 reported in the period January-June, 1935.

Among cities reporting improvement over May, 1935 and June, 1935, were: Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Nanaimo, New Westminster and North Vancouver.

The double-barrel shotgun was invented by Guilianno Bongi, of Rome, in 1616. The barrels were placed one above the other in his device.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

AUGUST 2

PHILIP'S MISSIONARY LABORS

Golden Text: They therefore that were scattered abroad went about preaching the word. Acts 8:4.

Lesson: Acts 8:5-40.

Devotional reading: Matthew 13:35-9.

Explanations And Comments

The first African convert, Act 8:25-40. In the midst of his labors in Samaria, Philip was suddenly directed to leave that field and go South on the road that led from Jerusalem to Gaza. Our text says that an angel of the Lord gave him this commission, but this does not tell us who was the chosen messenger. "A vision, a dream, a human agent, some natural circumstance or instrument, all these are in Holy Scripture or in contemporary literature styled God's angels or messengers."

Philip obeyed the divine commission, and met a man of great authority, the treasurer of Candace, queen of the Ethiopians, who was returning from Jerusalem where he had been to worship.

The Ethiopian was reading aloud, as was the way and custom of the East, and he asked Philip to explain the passage which he was reading.

"How can I except some one guide me?" was the Ethiopian's answer to Philip's question, as he invited Philip to enter his chariot and sit with him. The passage which he was reading was Isaiah 53:7 and 8, and he asked, "Of whom speaketh the prophet thus?"

And Philip opened his mouth (this is a Hebrew expression indicating that the words uttered were not spoken by chance but with deliberate purpose), and beginning from this Scripture, preached unto him.

The Ethiopian asked to be baptized when they reached a pool, and Gentile and Negro though he was asked, did so, and the Ethiopian went on his way rejoicing.

Philip went on to Azotus and then to Caesarea. As he passed through village after village he preached everywhere. "This Jesus is the Christ." Twenty years later Paul came to Caesarea and received a hearty welcome at Philip's house from Philip himself and from his four daughters who were active church workers there.

Civic Employment Bureau

South African City Supplies Native Help When Needed

The City of Johannesburg, South Africa, has announced that it can supply native washerwomen and janitrices to those who seek such help. At its Native Women's Hostel 120 native women now live and earn their living by doing laundry work or going to homes to do washing or housecleaning. To help them in their laundry enterprise the city has installed electric irons and a telephone.

Anything For Style

A young farm hand visited London to spend a holiday with a relative. His clothing being decidedly rustic in appearance, his host suggested that he should get a suit from a city tailor, to which the young man agreed.

"What about a small deposit, sir?" asked the tailor, when measurements had been taken.

"Just as you like," replied the other, "put one in if they're fashionable."

A pair of shoes with feet in them used as a paper weight will, in time, ruin any business. Just bear in mind that you can't leave footprints on the sands of time sitting down.

Field Of Regulation Limited

Extract From Address By Minister Of Public Works And Highways Of Ontario, Before A Meeting Of Ontario Motor League

"It is hard to conceive that from the safety point of view we can approach much nearer perfection in public control by statute and regulation. This field is positively limited. Human relations can only be slightly affected by public control. Some times I feel ashamed of the number of regulations we have, and I can tell you there is no more unpleasant part of my duties than the enforcement of them. The public, who have clamoured for enactment, invariably resent their enforcement. There is no doubt this item contributing to public safety is of very limited effectiveness."

"The main and principal factor is good manners, and we seem to be extremely bad-mannered people. Added to this is the fact that a man may be a mild, inoffensive little fellow at home, suddenly henpecked by his sides well galley by the harness of domestic discipline. He creeps from his door in the morning, enters his car, surrounds himself with the beauty and luxury of modern coachwork, and immediately he becomes an emperor—that is, if his wife is not with him—and in that case onward, at least while he is from the car, he is continually making a nuisance of himself all day, until he arrives home in the evening, dishevelled and becomes a normal person again. I want to say emphatically that that man is not the responsible party of his department. I have no control over manners in a motor car. That is the person the public has to deal with. His bad manners cause many accidents which are outside of law and regulation. He is not the problem of this department, and I might as well tell you frankly that we do not take any responsibility for him."

Japan's Cheap Textiles

Are Made Possible By Child Workers Receiving Small Pay

It is common knowledge that Japan is able to undersell the rest of the world in many things, especially in textiles, and an article in the Chicago Daily News by its correspondent in Japan, Frank Smothers, who recently toured a textile factory in Osaka, gives the reason.

Mr. Smothers walked through the mill, he saw many hundreds of children, boys and girls, at work in what is supposed to be a model institution. As they walked along each child and woman passed by was sweeping toward the boss. These children, he said, were taken from poor homes, mostly from small farms, and are indentured to the company for one year, the contract being renewable from time to time. This may be a valid reason, according to Japanese ideas, for hiring these child workers and keeping them under the dormitory system—they are seldom allowed outside the factory except for an occasional visit home—but even by comparison of men's wages which average about $18 a month—their pay is low. The dormitory children average about two and a half to three cents a day, plus their board. The wages of adult women are about six cents a day, including food.

As more than 50 per cent. of labor in textile factories is female, it can readily be seen why Japan can undersell the world in that industry.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Valuable Military Asset

Powerful Underground Radio Station Being Built In Germany

An underground radio broadcasting station, only one of its kind and second most powerful in Europe, will be ready for use in Germany by 1937.

Strict secrecy veils the construction of this subterranean transmitter, which will replace the present Deutschlandsender, which is located northeast of Leipzig, near Torgau on the Elbe.

Invisible from the ground and with a transmitting power of 300 kilowatts, the station can be turned overnight into a tremendously valuable military asset, capable of keeping Germany in touch with the outside world in spite of any contrary outside efforts.

It is assumed that underground airdials will be used, with which the military is experimenting extensively during the world war.

Railway Centenary

Celebrations In Montreal Mark 100 Years Of Operation

Canadian railways must keep step with mechanical developments like trucks, buses and aeroplanes or "become a gradually lessening influence in a field which for many years was peculiarly their own." Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport warned. The transport minister, joined with Premier Mackenzie King in congratulating the railways of Canada in completing 100 years of operations. Their messages were directed to celebrations in Montreal, marking the centenary of the first railway in Canada, which operated between La Prairie and St. John's, Quebec.

On the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the establishment in Canada of transportation by rail, the prime minister's message read: "I desire to extend heartfelt congratulations to the officials and men of the Canadian National Railways, within whose system is included the origins of the great railway system in Canada, and my cordial greetings to all who are engaged in providing for the community safe and efficient railway service. During the century which has elapsed since the first train operated between La Prairie and St. John's the steam railway has played an essential and all important part both in the formation and in the development of our Dominion."

"I should like to avail myself of this centenary occasion to convey to the Canadian National and to the railways of Canada as a whole my best wishes for continued opportunities of national service and for their prosperity in the years that lie ahead."

The transport minister traced the development of railways in Canada from the 16 miles between La Prairie and St. John's, now part of the Canadian National system, 100 years ago to 42,000 miles today.

Speeding Up Photos

Mobile Darkroom Alas Scotland Yard Experts In Tracing Scenes

Scotland Yard's expert cameramen, who nowadays take numerous photographs at the scene of every big crime in the Metropolitan area, are looking forward to the delivery shortly of their new mobile darkroom.

The introduction of this vehicle—literally a laboratory on wheels—promises a big saving of time in the early stages of crime detection.

At present photographers are rushed to the scene of a crime as quickly as possible, but their plates have to be brought back to Scotland Yard for developing. At times the pictures prove unsatisfactory and more have to be taken—often when on-the-spot conditions have changed considerably.

Photographers using the new van, therefore, will not only save time, but also achieve better results.

In addition to the dark room, with its tanks and other developing apparatus, the van will also house a finger-print compartment, in which experts will be able to examine finger-prints as soon as they are found and determine without delay whether they are of value.

The vehicle is being given an extra strong chassis to fit it for travel over rough ground, while a special springing system will enable the photographic experts to work while the van is in motion.

Germany's Latest Novelty

Glass Train Offers Passengers Good View Of Scenery

A "glass" train is the latest novelty for travellers on German railways. The upper part of the train is almost entirely of glass and offers passengers an uninterrupted view of the surrounding scenery. In the hilly and mountainous country the improvement is especially attractive. It will be put into regular service for scenic excursions from Munich to a different destination each day. The "Glass Train" is the third important break-away from conventional train design that German engineers have made recently—the military train, capable of keeping Germany in touch with the outside world in spite of any contrary outside efforts.

Thou Shalt Not Love

— A NOVEL BY —
 GEORGIA GRAIG

"They'll spoil their figures," Starr told herself, and knew she was laughing at herself, too. She was yearning for just such a meal. Starr Ellison—hungry!

She turned sharply when someone touched her arm, looked up to see a girl of about her own age standing timidly before her. But the girl was not well dressed as Starr was, with her carefully preserved tulle. There had been a pitiful attempt to "look nice," Starr could see that, but how could any girl look nice in clothing that was frayed almost past the wearing point? And her cheeks were pale, pale beneath the spots of rouge.

"I hope you won't mind me speaking to you, Miss," she said huskily. "But I've been looking for somebody—Oh, I can't stand it any longer—being so hungry. I've been looking and looking for a job, but—Her voice broke. The pathetic girl did not need to explain to Starr that she was not a regular feminine panhandler.

"The irony of it! But of course, Starr understood at once. She had forgotten, for the time being that the casual observer she still looked like a girl used to ermine and orchids.

"I'm so sorry," she said impulsively. "But you see, I can't." The dying of hope in the girl's eyes, her painful confusion, were too much. "Wait a minute!" she said, as her gloved hands fumbled at her purse, a smart looking purse that she had picked up in Cairo on that last dreadful trip and was using now because it was the last one left. She took a quick inventory of its contents, and handed the girl a quarter. Starr understood at once. She had forgotten, for the time being that the casual observer she still looked like a girl used to ermine and orchids.

"You won't be sorry," she said as she took the coin with trembling fingers. "And I hope you'll never know, Miss—"

Starr was not hearing her. She was hastily heading on down the cross street—toward the employment agencies. She didn't look back at the girl. That starving girl might be herself before long unless—

"There may be worse things in the world at that," she was murmuring, "than having only six months to live."

Yes, and there was a bit of comfort in the thought that there might be better things than having an opportunity to go back to Mrs. Mahoney's rooming house that night—unless if she could—that unspeakably dim place. Would she ever forget, could she, how often she had sat on the edge of her narrow, rickety bed back there, staring at the faded wall paper, the bureau with the ragged-edged scarf that was never clean, the dingy, hopeless-looking marquette curtains, and thought—of so much that she wanted to forget and could not?

Determinedly Starr marched on and turned down Sixth Avenue toward the agencies. What else could she do? That was all that life had resolved itself into in the past weeks, making the rounds of them day after day, or hoping, desperately, that the next day a job would materialize or something happen to break her luck, the luck that had pursued her so long, now. The luck that had not been satisfied with taking her father from her, but finally had taken her last cent, too, until now his daughter—his doomed daughter!—was here alone in a strange town. She was trying to make a go of what was left of her own life, far from her friends in the home town where Starr had feared some of them might insist on helping her. That would have been the last straw. Charity!

It was the same old story, and the afternoon had almost slipped by, with Starr feeling that her feet must be all blisters, when she reached the place she always left to the last—the worst agency of them all. Even in her desperation she hesitated in the dingy doorway, staring at the dirty arrow that pointed her way upward to the place from which she cringed. But taking her courage in her hands, she climbed the steps and went into the dusty, half-lighted room where the same henna blonde woman, with apparently the same mascara and heavy rouge she had worn since the first day Starr had seen her, sat behind the cluttered desk. The woman glanced up at her and shook her head.

"Nothin'," she said wearily, and then her shoulders shrugged. "Fraid you're wastin' your time and mine comin' here, dearie. We—"

"But there must be something—surely!" Starr burst out desperately. "I told you I was a good secretary—I am!—but I'll do anything. Anything!"

The woman's rouged lips were smiling oddly as she glanced up at the girl, that glance calculating, as if wondering just how much this well-dressed girl, of so obviously a different type to those to whom she was accustomed, meant what she said.

Starr's face was flushed, eager. "Well, why'n't you say so, in the first place?" the woman asked, her tone a bit exasperated. "Here I been thinkin' maybe you was a little too nice for our jobs, dearie, and—"

"I told you," Starr cut in, and felt her body shiver at the calculating glance and the queer laugh of the agency woman. The latter lowered her voice to say:

"You're a swell lookin' skirt, at that, an' say, baby, I got just the job for you, but he's plenty particular the kind we send him—"

"Oh, you know, I reckon. . . . You'd have to be real sweet and nice to him, dearie, and—"

"Of course, I'd be nice!" Starr said breathlessly. "I never thought of being—"

The woman laughed again, her eyes crinkling in the rough creases of her cheeks, then slowly drew toward her a card index box.

"The fee," she said, "will be a little steep, maybe, but y' understand, a girl don't get a chance at bein' nice to big shots that'll maybe plaster her with foolies, do they like her, see, and five iron men are cheap at the price, eh? But you got to be nice."

It was not so much the woman's words as her smirk. Suddenly Starr understood. She thought she was going to be sick. She didn't know what to say. But the five dollars answered the question for her.

"I haven't that much with me," she stammered. "I—I'll be back to-morrow."

"Okay, baby, an' you'll be gettin' a bargain."

Starr didn't know how she got out of the place, nor how far she had walked in an effort to get away from it until she saw the shrubbery of Central Park looming up ahead. She still felt nauseated. The Starr Ellison, must have fallen pretty low. To be offered a job like that! She hadn't thought it possible. And yet—

What difference did it make, after all, except that she still had pride enough to resist the thought that she looked like a girl who would even for a minute consider anything of that kind?

Still—What that agency woman had held out had offered her life, of a sort, and a chance to play. She hadn't thought of it in that light, though. She would not. Just before noon she had run across a man she felt sure, if he had given him the slightest chance, would have offered her a little chance to play. She had seen it in the eyes of that man before the Fifth Avenue show window. If she had waited just a minute more, the invitation would have been on his lips. But she had run away. Now she was offered, instead of a chance to play with a man of her own sort—

She shivered at the thought and hurried on through the lower edge of the Park. She had no desire right now to see people of leisure driving by in their rich limousines.

For the second time that day she found herself on Fifth Avenue, presently, but it was far to the north of the shopping district. The high stone wall of the Park was on one side of her, the trees shading the sidewalk just turning into rich autumnal shades. Across the street, loomed tall skyscrapers where people lived in twenty-room apartments. Shining cars sped by, arguing the right of way to the street with the top-heavy green buses. She walked on northward.

There was no scheme in Starr's mind, only the desire to keep on walking. Certainly there was nothing better to do, and the Avenue was a pleasant place; always interesting.

She had walked farther than she realized, and was almost opposite the Metropolitan Museum when she saw him.

There was no mistaking him, the broad good looks of the man who had spoken to her that noon, the set of his dark head on his wide shoulders, and the careless almost disinterested way, certain of his own masterfulness, with which he drove his maroon roadster.

He saw her at almost the exact moment she saw him. There was surprise in his eyes the moment their eyes met over the heads of the scattered walkers and the cars between. Then he grinned, straight at her, and Starr caught her breath. He was slowing down! Stopping at the next corner! He would be coming back!

How queer people could be, she thought in a breath. There, just a moment before, she had been regretting having run away from him, and right this minute there was no other thought in her mind but of doing the same thing again. Just why, she had no idea. She only knew that she must. On that single thought she had whirled as quickly as the car was brought almost to a stop. She sped up the steps of the Museum and into the safety of its maze of rooms, with a grateful sight at recognition of the fact that it was a free visiting day and the chains were down.

She was wondering if he really would come to seek her out as she wound her way through room after room, familiar with them all from many visits with her father. She smiled a little. Well, he would have a nice chase.

But Michael Fairbourne was doing no chasing. At the curb where he had pulled up for a moment, he sat still, glancing back. The girl was nowhere in sight. It did not occur to him she could have gone into the Museum. Nobody he had ever known ever had. His brow was wrinkled thoughtfully as he chewed on his lips for a moment, ruminatively. He took off his hat and ran his fingers through his thick hair.

"Umm, that's funny. . . . Almost like a hunch, but I'm not going chasing after her. If I do, I'll find that girl just one more time, though, I'm going to take a shot in the dark. . . . Just the type—just the type."

As his foot pressed the starter and his car shot ahead, he was grimacing.

"And if I do, here's hoping she's an orphan—complete!"

Amateur Receives Praise

Garage Mechanic Astronomer Makes His Fifth Star Discovery

The fire-fall comet which was visible late in July was discovered by a "garage mechanic astronomer" from a "cornfield observatory."

Other facts concerning Leslie Peltiers were discovered recently at Fayette, Mo., by Dr. Harlow Shapley, discoverer of the "Shapley Catalogue" of the Milky Way and director of the Harvard Observatory, one of the best equipped astronomical laboratories in the world.

The Harvard scientist praised "backyard" astronomers for contributing much to the development of scientific star-gazing.

"Peltiers is the champion variable star observer of the country," he said. "This is the fifth comet he has discovered in his cornfield observatory outside the village of Delphos, O."

"They say the rabbits can jump through the cracks between the corrugated iron sheets that wall his telescope. He prefers overalls to academic robes, and is called the garage-mechanic astronomer."

"An amateur, but in his early 30's, he already has discovered and accurately reported five hitherto unknown comets. Such a 'man' looks like a first-rate astronomer to many, however simple his instruments and methods."

Not as spectacular as Halley's comet, Peltiers' is the only five-tailed star that youngsters now living will ever see, Dr. Shapley explained.

He has just died, possessing many honors, in Burnham-on-Sea, England, aged 71.

Nova Scotia Woman 105, Has Never Learned English

Reputed to be 103 years old, Miss Catherine MacKinnon of Scotch Lake, near Sydney, Nova Scotia, who has just celebrated her birthday, has never yet had to call in a radio broadcast.

Miss MacKinnon, who claims to be the oldest spinster in the Maritimes, speaks only Gaelic, knowing not a word of English.

Used To Be Different

Only Three Lawyers Are Prime Ministers In Canada

There was a time when there were more lawyers holding the position of provincial premier than members of any other profession. Just now it is very different. There are only three lawyer Prime Ministers in the provinces and they are all in the Maritimes. Ontario has a farmer as premier and the Conservatives in that province have chosen a farmer to lead them. Quebec has its first farmer premier though its probably should be classed as a farmer-teacher, ranking in that category along with Mr. Bracken, Manitoba's premier, who was a teacher in an agricultural college before he went into politics. Saskatchewan has an insurance man as premier who succeeded a farmer, Mr. Gardiner, and Alberta's Mr. Aberhart was a school teacher and he followed a farmer, Mr. Reid. Mr. Pattullo of British Columbia isn't a lawyer, but he followed a farmer, Dr. Toynbe, and the C.C.F. leader, that province is a clergyman, and the new Conservative leader a physician—Lethbridge Herald.

Easy To Guess

Sir Malcolm Campbell, asked how well he could steer his Bluebird at 300 miles an hour, replied: "If you were precisely in my path a half mile ahead of me, I'd just graze you. But if you moved, it would be just too bad." (He didn't say just too bad for whom.)

Likely Made Attempt

An old lady who could not see eye to eye with the taxi driver on the question of fare, finally remarked: "Don't you try to tell me anything my good man. I haven't been riding in taxis for five years for nothing." "No," replied the driver, "but I bet you had a blasted good try!"

TRY OUT THIS INDOOR SPORT

It would be well if those ardent supporters of the Aberhart cause could pause occasionally to reason out the consequences of every step taken by the provincial government instead of accusing others of "misrepresentation and distortion."

To suggest, as has been suggested times without number, that wholesalers and retailers are deliberately turning their backs on two million dollars' worth of additional business for the sake of discrediting William Aberhart, is ridiculous on the face of it. Business men are not prone to allow politics to get thus far into their system and as a consequence reject such a volume of turnover.

If there are any people who are still bewildered on the subject of prosperity certificates, we suggest that they try out the scheme at home. An interesting, entertaining and educational game can be organized, using any waste paper for stamps and buttons for legal money with which to buy the stamps. The game starts with one man being elected premier. He it is who has the empty treasury and the pieces of paper. He distributes the certificates to a selected group of electors, designated as unemployed. One person acts as retailer, another as wholesaler. The unemployed must first work for the government before receiving scrip. The retailer and wholesaler between them must purchase stamps from the government, give currency in change for certificates and carry out in miniature the plan as outlined by Mr. Aberhart.

The person who is astute enough to prove that purchasing power has been increased by this simple transfer of paper and buttons is forthwith elected to the office of minister without portfolio and instructed to inaugurate a Social Credit scheme forthwith.—Drumheller Plaindealer.

JELLY FROM SEA WEED

Prince Edward Island may shortly have a new industry, which would make use of the practically unlimited supply of Irish moss, a form of sea growth which is to be found almost anywhere along the coast of the island province.

Inquiries about the quantity and quality of the sea weed, known here as "Carrageen Moss," have been received from outside interests, who would be interested in extraction of a jelly it yields for commercial purposes.

Irish-Moss jelly is similar to agar-agar, made from Japanese sea weed and used in the manufacture of flavored jellies and blanc mange. The weed already is used for such purposes by islanders.

It is believed the proposed industry would have great possibilities in view of the almost inexhaustible supply of Irish moss and the splendid European market for its jelly product.

Just like I'm see them now.

Was back at Ottawa;
You bet my life, he's fix things up,
The best you never saw.

He's never keep no idle camps,

So long there's timber in the woods
And coal upon the mine.

An' everybody's happy then,
More happy I can tell;
Now everybody's mak' complain,
The country's goin' to hell.

Wan book is all at school,
But the same, old Joe Leblanc,
By Gosh, he's no one's fool.

Went back upon the farm,
Also that bunch at Edmonton,
It won't do any harm.

Could run the whole damn show;
An' for that gold-damn C.N.R.

IN SEARCH OF BEAUTY

Charles Willis, of the Stettler independent, is a man who seems to get around quite a bit, and when he comes back he tells what he has seen in words of candor. As he wanders hither and yon, he keeps an appreciative or critical eye on the female of the species, and has never yet failed the women of Alberta. He is their faithful admirer, finding them the best, east or west.

Last winter he went over to Vancouver and conceding a few complexion and what not to the maidens of the Pacific he was glad to get back to the streets of Calgary and rest his eyes upon the brisk, vigorous, charming looking females of that city.

He has more recently returned from a trip to the east and again he has taken a little time to survey the feminine scene. And he is satisfied with his Western women? He is indeed. Here's how he says it:

"Starting from Detroit I noticed a gradual improvement in the personal appearance of the women until the apex was reached in Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon and Stettler. The ladies of Detroit were the homeliest I had ever seen anywhere. The crowds on the street of Detroit looked pale and worried as though they were afraid of their jobs. In Chicago there was a distinct improvement, and through the towns and cities between Chicago and St. Paul there was an ascending scale of feminine pulchritude.

"But in Winnipeg, Regina and Saskatoon and other points west, the ladies had that healthy look which comes from a temperate climate and an open-air existence. This question is important, though it may seem frivolous. Are Western winters and the high altitude hard on women? The women of western Canada look better dressed better and seem to have more vitality."

Such sentiments should carry a man far along the paths of peace and goodwill, except in Detroit.—Ex.

"HIS GOD IS HIS BELLY"

"His God is his belly" is a phrase with which we are all familiar, but which today we would not classify as drawing-room speech.

It will be surprising to our readers to learn that the source of the words is in the New Testament. In the Epistle of Paul the Apostle to the Philippians, in third chapter where he "exhorteth them to imitate him and a decline the ways of carnal Christians," we find this:

17. Brethren, be followers together of me, and mark them which walk so as ye have us for an example.

18. For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ.

19. Whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things.

Here is a Scotch story with a Highland flavor, but it is not a job at window.

Scotch thrift. It is a story of an altogether different color. In a Scottish village a boot repairer, who was a strict teetotaler, was passing the local "pub" when the landlord was assisting a customer off the premises. "Here, John," called the publican, "ye might gie this chap an airm-tae-his hoose?"

"Na, na!" replied the cobbler. "Ye should dae what I dae when I've finished a job—put it in the show."

A TOAST

Here is a toast I want to drink to a fellow I'll never know—
To the fellow who's going to take my place when it's time for me to go. I've wondered what kind of a chap he'll be, and I've wished I could take his hand;
Just to whisper, "I wish you well, old man," in a way that he'd understand.
I'd like to give him the cheering word that I've longed at times to hear;
I'd like to give him the warm hand-clasp when never a friend seems near.
I've learned my knowledge by sheer hard work and I wish I could pass it on
To the fellow who'll come to take my place some day when I am gone.
Then here's to your health, old chap; I drink as a bridegroom to his bride;
I leave an unfinished task for you, but few know how I tried.
I've dreamed my dreams as all men do, but never a one came true.
And my prayer today is that all the dreams may be realized by you!
—Shell Echoes.

Jack Tompkins, while taking census, asked a woman at the door: "How many of a family in your house?"
"Five," snapped the answer, "the old man, the kid, the cow and the cat."
"And the politics of your family?" he asked.
"Mixed. I am a Social Credit, the old man's Red, the kid's Wet, the cow's Dry, and the cat's a philanthropist."

BEGIN AT HOME

For the benefit of its readers, The Alliance Times quotes from Gerry McGeer's famous "money" address in the House of Commons:

"The Liberal party is placing its footprints on the trail of broken promises which leads not only through the valley of humiliation but deep down in the abysmal depths of eternal oblivion."

We would remind The Alliance Times of a certain other political party not so far from here which, a bare year ago, promised:

"No increase in taxation.
No confiscation of property.
No default on bonds.

Twenty-five dollars a month to all bona fide citizens."

Before pointing out the "note in some other political party's eye we would suggest that The Alliance Times attend to the beam in the eye of its own party."—Hanna Herald.

The town council of Macleod, opposed to reduction of interest on Alberta savings certificates, decided to accept a cheque from the government for $1,486.02 (based partly on the reduced interest) as "payment on account." They refuse to re-invest the sum of $30,000 at a 2 1/2% interest rate, while they are paying 4% on town debentures and 6 1/2% on current bank loan.

C. K. Underwood, editor of the Social Credit supplement to the Calgary Albertan, sustained painful injuries in an auto accident near Clareholm last week, necessitating his removal to the Clareholm general hospital. The SNAPSHOT GUILD
TAKE YOUR CAMERA ON VACATION TRIPS

Pictorial beauty and scenes of human interest may be captured almost anywhere by the vacationist who keeps his camera ready, as shown in these pictures taken on an automobile tour. The picture-taker stopped the car, instead of whizzing by.

AS EVERYBODY knows, one of the important pleasures of a vacation trip is talking about it afterwards. It is a rare person who has no desire to tell his friends what a "grand" time he had, of the places he visited, the beautiful scenery, the interesting people he met, and various entertaining experiences. If he is a good raconteur with the ability to make word pictures, his friends are likely to listen for quite a while, but, on the other hand, if he doesn't know how to tell his story interestingly, he may have to give in to bored "Yeahs," or a counter attack from his listener who, the chances are, has been on a vacation trip himself, and wants to tell his story.

However marvelous and interesting a trip is, and however well one is able to describe it, in the course of time the memory of it becomes dim, too vague to be inspiring any longer even to oneself. How much are you now able to tell about scenes, people and places on your first auto tour, say fifteen years ago?

There is only one sure way to keep these memories from fading and that is to take a camera with you on your trip and take pictures. With a camera, at least a half dozen rolls of film and a determination to take advantage of all picture-taking opportunities, you can create a picture story of your trip that no words, written or spoken, can tell so vividly, and it will live. You always will enjoy looking at these pictures—and, as to telling the story to your friends—be sure they will always be ready to look when they won't listen!

Too often it happens that, when starting on a vacation trip, he who has a camera neglects to take it along, or, if he does, too often fails to take advantage of picture opportunities. For example, it is easy, when one is rolling along the road in an automobile to let an interesting or beautiful scene go by without stopping the car.

Make up your mind before you start on a vacation tour, whether by automobile or otherwise, that you are going to bring back a picture record of the principal and most interesting things you see; and tell any traveling companions without a camera that when you see a good picture they must give you the chance to get it. Remind them that this is a pleasure trip, and, especially if you go by auto, that this business of whizzing by the scenery just to get to the next place in the quickest time is silly. Impress upon them that stopping to record an interesting picture will be worth incomparably more in permanent value than the few minutes gained at the end of a day's journey. Get the pictures as you go.

LABOR MEMBERS CAUSE UPROAR IN BRITISH COMMONS

London. — Three left-wing labor members of the House of Commons were suspended following a wild uproar which arose when several members accused Home Secretary Sir John Simon of lying.

The suspended trio was Geo. Buchanan, Campbell Stephen and Jack McGovern, all from Glasgow seats and members of the Independent Labor party. In the midst of the uproar the house was suspended for 15 minutes.

Government supporters fled to the lobbies amid shouts of "bony stavers" and "dirty rats." After the vote was announced Labor members rose in their seats and sang the "Red Flag."

In the midst of the excitement a newspaperman dropped dead in the press gallery. He was James Johnston, parliamentary reporter for a Midland newspaper.

Previously McGovern had thrown the house into turmoil with the remark: "Why doesn't the king support his mother? He must be a despicable individual." The interruption came when Sir John was discussing the responsibility of children in supporting their parents.

The suspensions came during an extended session of the commons, in the course of which the government's new unemployment assistance regulations.

Sir John Simon was defending the new regulations in face of shouting from the opposition benches. Suddenly Buchanan rose, his arms stretched out, and loudly shouted: "You are not telling the truth; you are lying!"

The deputy speaker immediately rose and sternly asked Buchanan to withdraw the unpatriotic expression. Feeling mounted high as Buchanan persisted in his accusation. Amid arising tumult, the fiery member of the "ginger group" refused several opportunities to withdraw his remark.

The deputy speaker then warned Buchanan it would be his duty to "name" him to the house unless he withdrew. Buchanan's face became red and his tongue rose as he refused again to do so.

In accordance with custom in such cases, the deputy speaker then "named" the honorable member for Gorbals, following which Sir John Simon moved the customary motion for suspension.

At this point an unrestrained uproar broke out. Campbell Stephen protested against the suspension of Buchanan, and hurled abuse at Conservative members.

"I hope every member of the Labor party will refuse to allow this debate to go on. Why should we listen to this liar, deliberately lying," said Stephen. He cried alternately, "That lying scoundrel! That dirty little rat!"

Stephen, protesting Buchanan's suspension, said he was being persecuted by those whom he called "robbers and murderers of the working class and the unemployed."

When the uproar showed no sign of subsiding, the deputy speaker suspended the sitting. The session had been in progress for more than 27 hours without a break.

Remember Sick Comrades

Vimy Pilgrims Send Message To Men Who Stayed At Home

Montreal.—The thoughts of Canada's pilgrims to Vimy are of the men and women who stayed at home.

To the veterans in hospital who could not return to battlefields and cemeteries of Great War days came a message from their comrades on the high seas.

A wireless remembrance from the liner Ascania said:

"On their solemn pilgrimage to Vimy for the unveiling of the Canadian war memorial the thought of 6,300 Canadian pilgrims turn to their comrades left in hospital at home to whom they send best wishes."

Feed Shortage

Old Straw Stacks Command High Price In Alberta

Lethbridge, Alta. — Old straw stacks, which in good crop years usually are worthless, are commanding a premium in southern Alberta. Stockmen, their pasture lands dried up by drought, were selling purchasers, paying as high as $80 a stack for feed for their grass-famined cattle. There were few stacks to be had, even at the high bid prices.

Shells Fall On Gibraltar

British Warn That Fire May Be Returned

Gibraltar. — British authorities warned the commanders of Spanish warships that the guns of Gibraltar, one of the world's mightiest fortresses, were ready for instant action. The British officials declared that 46 further shells fell on the great rock today as the war between Spanish rebels and loyalists, the fire would be returned by British artillery.

Anti-aircraft shells burst high over the famous rock and hundreds fled for shelter from a raging air-sea battle between loyal Spanish warships and a rebel fleet of aeroplanes.

Exploding shells menaced the British city. Residents and refugees were panicked. Splinters crashing at Fingus, southernmost point of the rock, a "dud" plumped into the sea near a commercial coal mole; a shell blew apart high over the Catholic cathedral; shrapnel fell near the luxurious Rock hotel, high on the west face of Gibraltar.

After the last planes headed back across the straits to north Africa two chimneys and a roof garden on the hotel were found to have been badly damaged by exploding shells.

The warships, lying off the rebel strongholds of Algeiras and La Linea, trained guns on the bombardment planes as the flyers dodged low about the rock like swallows to escape the vicious fire.

Taking Census Of Jobless

Registration Officers Have Been Named For Each Province

Ottawa.—Before embarking on the task of re-registering all recipients of unemployment relief in Canada, provincial governments were conferred with the national employment commission here to discuss procedure and make arrangements for a speedy compilation of the returns.

The commission invited each province to name an officer to conduct the registration and is providing forms for the purpose. Practically all of the provinces have named registration officers and these officials were invited to Ottawa for the conference.

The proposed registration will take place as of August 1 and will be designed to cover all persons on relief or going on relief on that date. He refused to be completed before the end of August.

Six Months Tour Of Britain During Coronation Year

London.—High commissioners and agent-general of the dominions considered a proposal by Lord Elgin for a six-month tour of Great Britain by an "empire train" next year, the coronation year. The proposed tour would last six months. The approximate cost was estimated at £37,000 ($185,000).

It is understood that the Canadian representative urges the inclusion of manufactured goods as well as primary products.

Liner Dodges Whales

Chief Officer Never Before Saw So Many Whales Bunched Together

New York.—A school of 30 or 35 large whales feeding at the surface of the Grand Banks caused the liner Berengaria to alter her course, officers of the ship docking here reported.

"I've seen whales before, but I don't think I ever saw so many as close together as that," said Chief Officer G. E. Barton, who reported the whales lay directly in the ship's course.

ACTION TO BE TAKEN TO ASSIST LIVESTOCK MEN

Ottawa.—The Dominion government is giving serious consideration to the plight of western livestock farmers arising from the widespread drought conditions, but will not favor any policy of wholesale destruction of animals in order to relieve the situation.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the government had devoted considerable time in cabinet council to reports from the west but the course of action to be adopted will await further discussions with the provincial authorities.

Finance Minister Charles Cockett of Alberta is in Ottawa and laid the problem before Hon. J. C. Elliott, acting minister of agriculture, and other government officials. He said it might be necessary to evacuate some 500,000 head of cattle from the affected areas in Alberta alone.

The prime minister indicated the government would endeavor to co-operate with the provinces in coping with this problem. Whether this would take the form of importing feed or transferring herds to less arid sections of western Canada, or both, remained to be decided. He did not believe there would be any destruction of herds merely for the purpose of getting rid of the problem.

The whole question would be given immediate consideration requiring conferences not only with the governments concerned but with the livestock organizations.

Mr. Cockett, in Ottawa to tell Dominion government ministers about the situation in his province, said the situation had grown rapidly more serious during the last three weeks.

Arid conditions, depleting the supply of feed for cattle, were spreading rapidly northward, he declared, and the drought area had crept within 20 or 40 miles of Edmonton.

He could give no estimate of the extent of the area, he said, because conditions had changed rapidly and a complete survey had not been completed.

The treasurer said he had informed the government of conditions affecting livestock during the course of a general talk on drought conditions.

Security Of Empire

Financial Burdens Of British Navy Lays Heavy Hand On Taxpayer

London.—The financial burden which the navy lays on the shoulders of the British taxpayer was called to the attention of an informal conference of the Empire Parliamentary Association by Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty.

"The very deep interest which the other peoples of the empire have in this matter may suggest to them as sharing the burden," he said. The solidarity of the British commonwealth upon the sea was the theme of Sir Samuel's address. He said this was once more demonstrated by the co-operation with the British fleet in the recent Mediterranean crisis of two Australian cruisers and one New Zealand cruiser. The admiralty was grateful for this co-operation, he said, as a symbol of the unity of purpose inspiring the empire.

At least one direction in which other parts of the empire can help lighten the mother country's naval burden, he suggested, was in the matter of local defence. In taking the solidarity of the British commonwealth upon the sea was the theme of Sir Samuel's address. He said this was once more demonstrated by the co-operation with the British fleet in the recent Mediterranean crisis of two Australian cruisers and one New Zealand cruiser.

"Next year we shall have a welcome and appropriate opportunity of discussing at the Imperial conference the manifold problems which our task entails," Sir Samuel continued.

"Centuries of experience," he said, "confirm our conviction that a strong British empire is the greatest guarantee of the peace of the world."

Qualifications for admission to the course will include pass and honor matriculation with a 75 per cent standing in all mathematical subjects of the honor matriculation. Those qualifying will take the first two years in engineering physics.

Visit Appears Doubtful

Report That King Edward Will Visit Canada After Coronation Not Confirmed

Ottawa.—While he hoped King Edward would find it possible to visit Canada following his coronation next spring, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said he doubted if His Majesty had yet considered the prospect of such a tour.

No information had been given the Dominion government that would support the rumor now current that the sovereign would visit Canada next year.

In an interview following the weekly cabinet council, Mr. Mackenzie King said he would be in Geneva for the 'League of Nations assembly meeting Sept. 21, but it would be "exceedingly difficult" for him to realize his hope of visiting Vancouver for that city's 50th anniversary celebration.

Queried on reports Hon. L. A. Taschereau, former premier of Quebec, would be appointed to the senate vacancy for Lewis, the prime minister said no appointments to the red chamber would be made until the eve of the next session of parliament. No decision had been reached on personnel of the delegation which will accompany the prime minister to Geneva. It has been Mr. Mackenzie King's custom to take strong delegations to the league meetings and it is expected he will be accompanied by several of his ministers.

CONSIDER PLANS FOR INCREASE IN USE OF WHEAT

London.—The international wheat advisory committee, established by the world wheat conference in 1933, devoted itself in the course of its eighth session to the problem of increasing wheat consumption.

Before it was a report from the secretariat forecasting an upward jump in world net exports of wheat flour for the 1936-37 season.

L. McQuinn, president at the meeting at which 19 countries are represented, including Canada, the United States, and Argentina, three of the biggest wheat-producing countries.

Augustin Edwards, Chilean ambassador in London, opened the debate. He said if new crops in the southern hemisphere were about average in size, it appeared probable that world wheat stocks in August, 1937, would be of only normal proportions or roughly about 450,000 bushels less than the peak reached in 1934, 1934.

Edwards said, however, that at the moment level of consumption the danger of reaccumulation of burdensome wheat surpluses had not been averaged but merely postponed.

Emphasizing that to increase the consumption of wheat seemed a policy that would enlist the sympathies of both producers and consumers, Edwards suggested that the committee should start an inquiry to ascertain the possibilities of creating an international revolving wheat fund. He proposed this be controlled and financed by an international body and that its reserves be drawn on from time to time to meet the needs of regions and countries of temporary shortage and to pay current commercial prices.

If the committee decided to study the proposal, Edwards suggested three things:

1. The possibility that an international organization such as that which he envisaged might obtain at a low price part of the burdensome surpluses which would probably have accumulated in several countries in the next few years;

2. The possibility of financing such a wheat reserve through an international institution such as the bank for international settlements;

3. Satisfactory assurances that the reserves would be used solely for the purpose of relieving grave emergencies and satisfying a demand which could not be made effective because of lack of purchasing power under normal conditions.

The delegates generally welcomed the proposal. The chairman said if measures could be recommended leading to increased consumption of wheat in populous regions, especially Asia, a great service would be rendered to the wheat growers.

The committee was advised that the tentative figure for world exports of wheat flour next season was 525,000,000 bushels as against an estimated 510,000,000 bushels for the 1935-36 season.

The production figure for 1936 among European wheat exporting countries, exclusive of Russia, was up also, estimated at 480,000,000 bushels as against 375,000,000 in 1935.

UNITED FARMERS WANT FAIR FIXED PRICE FOR WHEAT

Saskatoon.—A provincial, non-delivery strike on all grains will be instituted by the United Farmers of Canada if the federal government discontinues the wheat board and the fixed price for wheat. Enlisting of every Saskatchewan farmer's support in the strike will be sought, it was decided in a resolution passed by the U.F.C., Saskatchewan section, convention, concluding a three-day session here.

It was also decided to petition the federal government to set the price for wheat at $1.12 per bushel, and to ask support of the Saskatchewan wheat pool in that demand. The price, it was felt, would enable farmers to secure a fair standard of living.

A blanket, uniform debt adjustment program, applicable to both secured and unsecured creditors, will be requested of the government.

Tenor of the session, which dealt at length with debt adjustment, was that farmers should be protected against starvation, and that banks and mortgage companies should bear the brunt of hard times on an equal footing with the merchant, or other unsecured creditor.

Opposition to any plan of immigration was given voice by the meeting in a resolution which stated residents of the province should be assured a fair standard of living before outsiders were brought in.

Requests to both provincial and federal government to permit unemployed to work at the production of useful commodities under public ownership was the stand taken toward the unemployment problem by the farmers.

Resolutions dealing with reciprocal trade, crop insurance, crop marketing legislation and requesting the federal government to amend the Natural Products Marketing Act, making it valid, were discussed by the convention also.

The meeting carried a resolution asking governments to enact legislation necessary to enable the assembling and marketing of all farm products under the control of commodity boards, upon which a majority of products of these products be appointed.

Uniform Laws For Highways

Are Likely To Be Discussed Later This Year

Ottawa.—Initiation of uniform laws throughout the Dominion for regulation of highway bus and truck traffic will be taken up at a meeting of Dominion provincial government representatives later this summer, it was learned.

It is not anticipated, however, that any new laws dealing with this problem will be established until next year, when provincial legislation and the Dominion parliament.

At the Dominion-provincial conference last December the special committee on this subject recommended a series of 11 recommendations, which were adopted by the conference as a whole.

Feeder Purchase Policy

Encouragement To Be Given To Winter Feeding Of Livestock

Ottawa.—The feeder-purchase policy for the encouragement of the winter feeding of young cattle and lambs in districts where feed is plentiful has been renewed by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture. The policy is effective from Aug. 1 to Dec. 31, and under its terms one-way transportation and reasonable travelling expenses will be allowed to a farmer in any part of Canada purchasing one or more carloads of young feeder cattle or feeder lambs according to the conditions laid down by the livestock branch, Dominion department of agriculture.

Rescue Foreigners

Warships Sent To Spain To Give Aid To Nationals
